

ONE VISION: TLH REGIONAL TALENT PLAN 2025

OVERVIEW: In 2021 the Tallahassee Talent Development Council (TDC) was established with representatives from leading workforce and education entities in the Capital Region. The TDC developed a strategic plan to guide the process. The One Vision strategic planning process included input from nearly 50 stakeholders and qualitative research. From this engagement the TDC developed and executed a comprehensive plan over the past three years. This plan continues to evolve to be responsive to community education and workforce development needs as we aim to create a successful talent pipeline for businesses and organizations.

Goals

1. TDC works collaboratively to support execution of the strategic priorities and identifies collaborative funding opportunities to expand the work and opportunities.
2. Raise awareness of training, education and employment opportunities, reaching students and adults.
3. Elevate engagement with business and industry to further understand talent needs, elevate opportunities and deliver resources with the community goal to create more than 14,000 new jobs by 2030 to remain competitive.

Overview of Strategic Priorities

1. Create a More Efficient Workforce Development Ecosystem

From public school activities and university programs to community education initiatives, there are a variety of workforce resources and service providers in the Capital Region. Resources exist to help students, graduates and underemployed individuals with information and skill development needed to ensure pathways to advance education and career success. Yet, few people are fully aware of the comprehensive services and many providers could benefit from more efficient collaboration and partnership.

2. Develop a Pipeline of Highly Skilled Talent

In order for the Capital Region to remain competitive we must create nearly 12,000 new jobs by 2030. Currently, there is a shortage of workforce as there are two jobs open for every individual that is seeking employment. One of the top priorities for industry is the availability of a skilled workforce. The Capital Region is well positioned to reframe its worker pipeline by investing in specialized training opportunities, including work-based learning and apprenticeship opportunities to help decrease barriers to employment.

3. Reach Targeted Populations with Training and Employment Opportunities

To increase our local talent pool and provide individuals with meaningful and livable wages, the TDC will address eliminating barriers that exist for target populations: single parents, the formerly incarcerated, disconnected youth and those living with disabilities. Barriers to employment include but are not limited to transportation, criminal history, childcare, basic needs insecurity, affordable housing and food insecurity.

Measurement of Success

1. Monthly TDC meetings, execution of the plan and new funding opportunities are explored together.
2. Reach and engagement of our programs, marketing and other initiatives.
3. Community Scorecard progress with unemployment rate and number of new jobs created.
4. Talent Pipeline Management participation, intern/extern programs and Worlds of Work engagement.
