WORKSHOP: FSU as an Economic Engine: Building the Capital Region's Next Chapter

Speakers:

Stacey Patterson, Vice President for Research, FSU

Kyle Clark, Senior Vice President for Finance and Administration, FSU

Jonathan Fozard, Vice President for Information Technology Services, FSU

Valerie McDevitt, Associate Vice President for Strategic Partnerships & Innovation, FSU

This session will explore how Florida State University's continued growth can support a broader regional economic development strategy for Tallahassee and the Capital Region. The conversation will include FSU Health as one important example of the university's role in shaping the future, while also broadening the discussion to include technology, AI, research commercialization, talent retention, industry partnerships, and the region's long-term competitiveness. Participants will discuss how the Chamber, business community, local government, and university leadership can work together more intentionally to connect FSU's strengths with the region's economic opportunities.

WORKSHOP: From Memos to Demos - Transforming Ideas Into Production Ready Technology in One Hour

Speaker: Vincent Hunt, Founder & CEO, Bureau of Creative Intelligence

In sixty minutes, you'll go from a napkin-sketch idea to a working software prototype, no code, no developers, no kidding. This hands-on workshop walks you through a guided digital experience that transforms your business idea into a structured Product Requirements Document (PRD), then deploys it as a live, functioning web application using AI-powered build tools. Bring an idea you've been sitting on. Leave with a prototype you can actually show people. This is what creative intelligence looks like in 2026.

Join us as we close out this year's conference with a two-part session bringing together leading voices in commercial development, planning, and homebuilding to explore how Tallahassee and the broader region are experiencing growth, not just through new housing, but through strategic, large-scale community development that drives economic momentum and long-term investment.

The Economic Engine: Commercial Growth, Downtown Activation & Market Demand

Moderated by Ed Murray and Slayton Murray of NAI TALCOR, the opening segment focuses on examining how office, retail, and mixed-use development, along with a renewed emphasis on downtown, are responding to evolving workforce trends and helping attract employers and talent. This conversation provides critical context for understanding how commercial activity signals future growth and sets the foundation for new community development across the region.

From Neighborhoods to Ecosystems: The Power of Master-Planned Communities

Building on this foundation, the second segment, featuring Grady Miars of GreenPointe, Joe Everson of DR Horton, and Richard Darabi of Moore Bass Consulting, expands the conversation to the broader impact of thoughtfully designed communities, highlighting how developments like TalisTrails integrate amenities, infrastructure, and placemaking to create lasting economic value. Panelists will offer perspectives spanning local, regional, and statewide markets, including DR Horton's continued expansion across the Florida panhandle, and how these trends translate into job creation, business growth, and enhanced quality of life.

Together, these two segments provide a comprehensive look at how commercial investment and master-planned communities work in tandem to shape Tallahassee's future as a competitive and thriving regional hub.

BREAKOUT SESSIONS (10:15 A.M. – 11:15 A.M.)

FSU Health: Advancing Our Possibilities in Tallahassee

Speakers: Richard McCullough, President, Florida State University
Mark O'Bryant, Chief Executive Officer, Tallahassee Memorial HealthCare, Inc.
Stacey Patterson, Vice President for Research, Florida State University
Jeremy Slaga, Vice President and Chief Clinical Operating Officer, Florida State University
Ryan Smith, President & Chief Operating Officer, Tallahassee Memorial HealthCare, Inc.
Dr. Dean Watson, Vice President & Chief Integration Officer, Tallahassee Memorial HealthCare, Inc.

FSU Health represents one of the most significant opportunities for the future of health care, research, innovation, workforce development, and economic growth in the Capital Region. This session will discuss how this evolving academic health ecosystem can expand access to care, strengthen clinical excellence, advance medical research, and create new pathways for collaboration across education, business, and community partners. Attendees will hear directly from leaders shaping this work and gain insight into what FSU Health could mean for Tallahassee's future, from attracting and retaining talent to supporting innovation, improving health outcomes, and positioning our region as a stronger hub for health care and life sciences.

Sports as an Economic Engine: Driving Growth Through Tourism and Events

Moderator: Tonja Ward, Co-Founder & Executive Director, Charlie Ward Champions Ranch
Panelists: Dr. Ashlee Fontes, Founder & CEO, TLH Reckoning
Kerri Post, Director, Visit Tallahassee
Ben Zierden, Senior Associate Athletics Director for Operations, Florida State University

Sports are far more than competition, they are a proven catalyst for economic growth, tourism, and community pride. This engaging session brings together local leaders who are actively shaping Tallahassee's evolving sports ecosystem to share compelling, real-world examples of how teams, facilities, and events are attracting visitors, generating revenue, and elevating the region's profile as a destination. Attendees will hear how communities are building and sustaining sports franchises, securing major tournaments and championships, collaborating with universities and private partners, and creating standout facilities and fan experiences that draw regional and national audiences. Spanning everything from soccer and volleyball to swimming, rodeo, and global-caliber events, this conversation offers an inside look at how a coordinated, community-driven approach can turn sports into a powerful and lasting economic driver, and why participation in this momentum matters now.

Beyond County Lines: The Power of Regional Collaboration in Economic Development

Moderator: Michael Dalby, President & CEO, Greater Tallahassee Chamber of Commerce
Speakers: Jennifer Conoley, President/CEO, Florida's Great Northwest
Jeff Hendry, Executive Director, North Florida Economic Development Partnership

Partnerships and collaboration are the engines of modern economic development. In this session, we're moving beyond the map to look at the power of the regional model. Hear from leaders to two regional economic development organizations surrounding Tallahassee as they share real-world success stories of multi-county collaboration. We will dive into the mechanics of building a stronger, unified region and explore how collective efforts strengthen every community's individual competitiveness. Discover how moving beyond county lines creates a rising tide that truly lifts all boats.

Reading the Future: Using Education Data to Strengthen Talent, Trust, and Economic Growth

Speakers: Shelly Bell, Vice President, Workforce Development, Tallahassee State College
Marcus Nicolas, President, ESPMedia
Emily Šaras, PhD, Chief Executive Officer and Data Scientist, Knowli, Corp.

Education data tells a powerful story about a community's workforce pipeline, economic resilience, and long-term opportunity when it is understood and used well. This session centers on the Education Data Dashboard developed through the ASPIRE program and its newly refreshed data, using it as a lens to connect local education outcomes with workforce and community priorities. Attendees will explore how shared, transparent data can elevate conversations among employers, educators, and civic leaders, moving beyond headlines to reveal trends, gaps, and opportunities over time. Participants will walk away with a clearer understanding of how to interpret education data, how storytelling and tools like data walks can spark more meaningful dialogue, and how to apply these insights to inform decisions, partnerships, and strategies that strengthen the future talent pipeline and the broader community.
